WEED INSPECTION.

A number of complaints have been received at different times and from different places, that threshers were not observing the Noxious Weed Act, relating to cleaning the grain and also to cleaning the nachine when moving to a new job. The Department of Agriculture has decided this year to send out Weed Inspectors to see that the Act is better observed, and the Inspectors better observed, and the Inspectors have instructions to prosecute of-fenders who persist in violating the Act. Now, this is a matter that rests largely with the farmers, and the Department will be pleased to have their co-operation. Every farmer should insist that the machine be thoroughly cleaned, both inside and out, before coming on his place, and when threshing from the stook he should see that the racks are swent off also before from the stook he should see that the racks are swept off also before he allows them to come onto his farm. If this is done in the right way I believe that the thresher will not make any great objection. The district to be covered by each Ingressers is larges, and at host he

Take the simple illustration of mountaineering. A mountain often baffles ascent until the route is found. Thus did the Matterhorn is found. Thus did the Matterhorn until the way was shown, but the climb is now somewhat common-place. It is not to be supposed that the journey to the pole will ever be easy, but the route obviously means

ONE CENT POSTAGE.

One cent postage is the next step required to make the postal service a real convenience to the public. Some years ago postage within Canada was three cents. The gov-Canada was three cents. The government proposed to make the rate to Great Britain the same, Britain, however, opposed this, and insited upon a two-cent charge. To this our government had to consent. Two cents to England and three within Canada was an absurdity. A campaign to compel a reduction of the Canadian rate to two cents was therefore begun, and was successful. Now, seeing that the pooling part of the property of the pro office pays its way and has a surplus, one-cent rate ought to be given.-Mail and Empire

A PROPHET

It will take 500 miles of freight cars to move the western crop this year. A procession of cars extending from Vancouver to Field would do the business. Sir Charles Tupper once predicted that the west would produce 100,000,000 bushels wheat, whereupon the pessim pursued him with figures show 100,000,000 bushels of that if it did anything of the kind the number of freight cars needed to remove the crop would be so great as to make one continuous train hundreds of miles in length. Sir Charles was, however, a good prophet, for his prediction has al-ready been verified.—Vancouver

THE FARMER'S POLICY.

The farmer's policy this year of holding much of his wheat, rather holding much of his wheat, rather than shipping it out at once, will not enable him to set the market price at any figure he likes, but it may enable him to get nearer the the full market value of his product. Both Canadian and American farm-ers seem to be following this policy very consistently so far.—Saekatoon Phaeniv.

Minneapolis.—The Minneapolis flour mills will again be grinding Canadian wheat before another crop has been raised in the United States. This is the opinion of a number of millers here who have made a close study of the new tariff bill and the drawback provisions therein. The great obstacle in the way of handling the imported raw material has been the disposal of the by-product. The bonding, as one of the new tariff act, held that the entire product of the imported wheat the continuous considerable wheat in bond under the drawback regulation, but that was no a time of an extraordinary general disarrangement of the world sprices, and which will be particularly important to the mills of Minneapolis, Duluth, Buffalo, New York and other centres closs to the Canado the content of the world sprices, and which will be particularly important to the mills of Minneapolis, Duluth, Buffalo, New York and other centres closs to the Canado there centres closs to the Canado the centre of the world's prices, and which will be particularly important to the mills of Minneapolis, Duluth, Buffalo, New York and other centres closs to the Canado the centre the world's markets, buy wheat, grind it in bond and export the flour. The by-product may then be taken from the bonded mill and sold for ment by the miller of a duty that would be assessed by the government if the hy-product had been imported while the tariff bill was before congress.
